ARMORED HOWITZER USED BY FRENCH LIV PURSULYG GERMAY

Upper picture shows one of the 200-milimeter (eight-inch) rapid-firing howitzers of the French army which is being used in driving the retreating Germans before the allies. The howitzer is mounted on the flat car of a war train. The gun and carriage itself are protected by an armored shield. Folding arms swing from both sides of the car when the howitzer is ready to discharge its death-dealing messengers. These arms prevent the car from being overturned from the shock of the concussion.

Lower picture shows German motor truck dragging artillery along the road. The use of these motors gave the Germany army its great mobility.

This army is moving westward, while another, driving the second Austrian before it, according to Russian reports, is moving south from Zamos and Radom between Przemysl and Cracow.
